

Dear Thomas,

if you're reading this now, it most likely means that I'm not around anymore. Instead of grieving over my death, I hope that you will pull yourself together and read this letter carefully.

On 13 July 2001, I received a threatening phone call from Pactrick that my daughter will be his next target if I refuse to hand over the secret documents. I was told to meet him somewhere near the old Changi hospital and he will let me know of the exact location.

With this, I can conclude that Patrick is the real perpetrator behind all those incidents. I've got evidence against him, he wants my life. I have to ask of you, please seek justice for me. I have left incriminating evidence against him at a locker in the gym I frequent.

Help me please, Thomas. You are my only hope. Protect my daughter!

With love,
Sophia
